En parejas, cada estudiante explica una situación personal (real o inventada) usando una de las expresiones.

Evelyn: Fior, you look really moved. Can you tell us what you felt when Ariel dedicated the song to you?

Fior: I didn't expect it... I felt calm, like the song could help me breathe again. "Let it be" is something I really needed to hear.

Luz: I get it. This song can make anyone feel comforted. Ariel knows you well. Why do you think he chose it for you?

Fior: Maybe because he knows I've been stressed. He said the song could remind me that not everything is in my control.

Mercedes: That's true. And you know, we can support you too. You don't have to carry everything alone.

Fior: I know... and I'm grateful. Sometimes I forget I can ask for help.

Evelyn: We're here. And honestly, the song could be a message for all of us. Life gets heavy.

Luz: Exactly. When the song says "there will be an answer," it feels like a promise. Like things can get better even if we don't see how yet.

Mercedes: Fior, what part of the song touched you the most?

Fior: The line about "times of trouble." It made me think that maybe I can let some things go instead (AINSTED) of fighting everything.

Evelyn: And you could start by resting more. You've been pushing yourself too hard.

Luz: We can help with anything you need this week. Just tell us.

Fior: Thank you. Really. Ariel's dedication... and you three... it made me feel like I'm not alone. Maybe I can finally let things be.
